RELIGION IS ADVICE

الدِّينُ النَّصِيحَةُ

“Ad-Din un-Nasiha.” It [religion] orders good and forbids evil. People who do not do this are responsible in levels. How so? You tell them if they are willing to listen to the order or advice. If you see evil you forbid it. If you cannot forbid it, you tell them with your tongue. And if that does not work, you need to dislike it in your heart. You would be committing sin if you do not dislike it in your heart. Disliking in the heart is the lowest level of faith. If you do not do it either, you would be held responsible for the sin.

They say the world has become global. People accept everything. People even see evil as normal because of movies and news on television. You need to know the halal¹ and the haram². If you can order the halal you do so. If you cannot, you need to dislike it in your heart. You can also object until they say alright and accept it. If you cannot do it with your tongue, you do it with your heart.

Evil is not an order of Allah. Allah's orders are good things. Whatever He does not order are evil, ugly, and disgusting things. May Allah not misguide anyone of us from the right path. Let us know what is halal and what is haram. Let us also know what is good and beautiful and what is ugly.

Wa Minallah at-Tawfeeq.
